JOE O'NEILL UNPLUGGED!

Some time ago Mike Sims, our esteemed editor, asked me to send him a bundle of Joe's wisdoms and wisecracks at the December meeting. So... Read on...

"Say 'hello' to the fellah beside you, or say 'get lost' or whatever"

"Use sharp tools or prepare for a visit to the Eye and Ear Hospital. Oh, and if you're in the hospital, slip the nurse a pen. Next time you're there you'll get VIP treatment."

Upcoming Events:

- Next DWT Meeting - 4th February 2017.

- The May Seminar 2017 will feature Robert O'Conner.

"Laughter is the best medicine of all."

"I did a demo once and made a stressed guy relax."

"Geriatric amnesia can be a bonus. Sometimes you find things after months!"

By way of accounting for his knee-bending choreography while turning, Joe explained, "My Vicmarc has a knee-bar for stopping."

"I put this item in a competition once and got no marks- the judges didn't know what it was."

Simple sanding-strip holder: a bit of board and some clothes pegs. Write the grit numbers on the board. (Not a joke)

Joe got a free sample of a hearing aid from Hidden Hearing..."Now I can hear fellahs talkin' behind me back!"

Toward the end of the demo, our intrepid demonstrator (who was now wearing a Scotsman's cap, with copious tufts of orange coloured hair sticking out) frowned and was heard to say, "What am I doing?" ("Hello,... 'Senior Moment' Department?")

I honestly cannot recall the details of a lengthy anecdote about a phone call Joe made concerning a malfunction with his mobile. I do know that Joe terminated the conversation when the voice at the other end said, "Pull out your modem." (Well really, is nothing sacred??)

Let's end with the following gem (referring to teaching people how to woodturn): "Dig-ins are part of the Course." I can see it now: "How to achieve a spectacular dig-in effortlessly!"

Thanks for all the laughter, Joe! Oh, and for an interesting demo too. Pacelli O'Rourke

A Tall Story by Anon.

Luigi, a perpetual bachelor, owned one of the biggest and fastest-growing businesses in Miami, a furniture manufacturing shop. Friends convinced him that he needed to take a trip to Italy to check out the latest trends there, and maybe he could meet an available young Italian woman at the same time.

As he was checking into a hotel he struck up an acquaintance with a beautiful young lady. She only spoke Italian and he only spoke English--neither understood a word the other spoke. So he took out a pencil and a notebook and drew a picture of a taxi. She smiled, nodded her head and they went for a ride in the park. Later, he drew a picture of a table in a restaurant with a question mark and she nodded. So they went to dinner.

After dinner he sketched two dancers and she was delighted. They went to several nightclubs, drank champagne, danced and had a glorious evening. It had gotten quite late when she motioned for the pencil and drew a picture of a four-poster bed.

He was dumbfounded. To this day he says that he's never been able to understand how she knew he was in the furniture manufacturing business.

The Wood That Fights Fire

Alex Eben Meyer

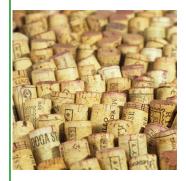

As gold-crazed settlers flocked to the Bay Area in the 19th century, they needed lumber to build their homes and mines. And what better way to get a lot of wood at once than toppling an enormous redwood? Little did they know the wood had a greater legacy in store.

In April 1906, San Francisco awoke to a major earthquake. As if the rocking buildings weren't bad enough, residents were soon battling massive fires that threatened to consume the city. But the city didn't go up in smoke for one reason: redwoods.

Though the fire spread for three days, a curious thing happened when it hit a building made from the mighty tree. While not totally fireproof, the redwood's low resin content and porous grain allows it to take on moisture, which makes it far more flame-resistant than woods like pine. As one reporter noted, "[I]n all principal directions, the fire was finally stopped in the very midst of frame redwood buildings.".

Put a Cork in it?

Cork is the most environmentally friendly way to seal a bottle. While aluminum and synthetics can be recycled, that process requires a lot of energy. Harvesting cork, on the other hand, is much greener and doesn't begin until after a cork oak tree's 25th birthday. Workmen carefully peel off the outer layers of bark using special axes, making sure not to harm the trees so that the cork can be manually harvested again after a decade of rest. As the cork regenerates, the trees continue to play a valuable role in the forest's ecosystem by helping to clean the air. If you compare the impact, an aluminum wine cap generates 24 times more emissions than natural cork.
